MEET OUR MARKETING MANAGER

This month, we shine the spotlight on Patrick "Pat", our forward-thinking Digital Marketing Manager who plays a vital role in strengthening the link between security, technology, and communication at Metropolitan Security Services.

Pat's work goes beyond marketing. He applies his expertise in security systems, IT, and digital innovation to ensure that the company operates at its best while keeping our clients and staff fully supported. His ability to connect frontline security services with modern digital tools brings lasting benefits to all.

His blend of security knowledge, digital expertise, and communication skills ensures Metropolitan is not just protecting people and property — but also building trust, efficiency, and long-term partnerships.

DID YOU KNOW?

Across London last month there was a tube strike that caused major disruption across the capital, however our clients and our people were not disrupted, our staff that rely on the tube to travel back and to for work were supported by the generosity of our CEO who authorised the use of 87 Ubers to transport those staff reliant on the use of the tube, clients and our people before profits, that's what makes us different.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR MANAGING DIRECTOR

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all our teams on the ground who constantly go above and beyond for our clients, a big thank you especially this month to our operations director Zee who never fails to amaze me in the recruitment and deployment of the many new members of staff who were deployed to one of our new national contracts this month.

Keep up all the good work, each and every one of you who report for duty day and night and who contributes so much to the ongoing success story that is Metropolitan Security.

Bill Mannix
Managing Director
